

Media Articles Condemning Wealth persist. It would be smart for “Us, the American People to ferret out how those who look at comparative wealth with disdain would correct wealth disparity. Arguments to correct wealth disparity, one way or other, call for wealth redistribution. It is common for wealth redistribution advocates to demand they with comparative wealth have their wealth legally confiscated.

“It’s illegal to say to a voter “Here’s $100, vote for me.” So what do the politicians do? They offer the $100 in the form of Health Care, Social Security, Unemployment Insurance, Food Stamps, tobacco subsidies, grain payments, NEA payments, and jobs programs.”

~ Don Farrar

It Would Not Be Too Far Fetched to label demands for legal wealth confiscation/redistribution resentment politics. “We, the American People” who favor wealth confiscation/redistribution may so favor for purely humanitarian concerns. We may be entirely altruistic; all we may want is for everyone to have their needs met, and for everyone to have equal opportunity to be successful in life’s travails.

“Every movement that seeks to enslave a country, every dictatorship or potential dictatorship, needs some minority group as a scapegoat which it can blame for the nation’s troubles and use as a justification of its own demand for dictatorial powers. In Soviet Russia, the scapegoat was the bourgeoisie; in Nazi Germany, it was the Jewish people; in America, it is the businessmen.”

~ Ayn Rand

Not Uncommonly Do We Hear we are, “. . . a nation of laws, not of men.” Gotta be careful how we bandy slogans about. They might boomerang. Unjust laws are laws, sound or unsound. Besides, no law is enforceable if people ignore or disobey it in numbers exceeding government power to enforce. “Our, the American People’s” power, held by a sovereign citizenry, can undo laws we find not in our interest.

“If workers struggle for higher wages, this is hailed as “social gains”, if businessmen struggle for higher profits, this is damned as “selfish greed”.”

~ Ayn Rand

Undoing Laws Not In Our Interest requires our willingness to, by vote or vigor, rescind such laws. Were there enough of us demanding wealth confiscation/redistribution to vote so in large enough numbers, wealth confiscation/redistribution would be law. Those of us with wealth subject to lawful confiscation/redistribution would be eligible to have our wealth taken. By law, not by men. By law.

“Yet those who are loudest in proclaiming their desire to eliminate poverty are loudest in denouncing capitalism. Man’s well-being is not their goal.”

Democrats are about as underhanded and dirty as they come. I mentioned in the past that the huge bureaucracy this nation's government officials have created is there to launder money. Follow the money trail and try not to get dizzy. Below is a link to an article that... well... WOW – 50-ways to steal your money!

Read this article from The Daily Wire: Top Official Of USAID-Linked Foreign Aid Agency To Plead Guilty To Taking Bribes

Mathieu Zahui, the CEO of African Development Foundation, has been caught with his hand in the proverbial USAID cookie jar. The article explains the complexity of the fraud. He's been caught and plans to plead guilty, and I hope he sings like a songbird! He was the hero of the Democrat Party when he locked his doors and refused to allow DOGE into his office. So, the democrats fought with their dirty federal district judges to keep President Trump and DOGE from removing the cancerous tumor of fraud within the bureaucracy.

When DOGE got started auditing, democrats began their political contortions to stop them from uncovering wasteful spending and fraud. They definitely didn't want anyone fired or laid off. We suspected fraud, but we didn't expect it to be as widespread as it seems to be: It's a wild fraud-fire, and just like Governor Gavin Newsom wouldn't allow water to put out the Palisade wildfires, the democrats are going to fight like hell to keep their fraud-fire going!

Upgrade to paid

We know that Minnesota does not have a monopoly on fraud. Fraud seems to be popping up all over, and with the dirty revelations of fraud comes the dangerous chaos; protestors with a violent nature. Hired protestors - if one or two die in the process, it works to the advantage of the democrats. What greater a distraction from the dirty deeds of the democrat governors, mayors and AGs than to turn the cameras the other direction, and the hate toward President Trump and ICE. Take note: the protests got much larger and more heated up after the fraud in Minnesota was brought to America's attention. Also note that much of the media in America is hiding the fraud; are they taking bribes too?

Democrats are dirty, and when they get caught, they are dangerous!

Republicans, however, are reluctant, reticent, and regressive!

We're in a year of "midterm elections" and the rumors are spinning around about democrats taking back the majority of the house and maybe the senate. Several republicans have decided to retire or run for another office in their state. Elise Stefanik was going to run for governor of New York but then decided not to... and with that she also decided to get out of politics completely, leaving a republican seat open for democrat grabs. I really like Elise but I'm disappointed and I pray she isn't bowing out because of health reasons. She said it was to spend time with her family; which I do understand... but if democrats take the majority what kind of a country will there be left for her family? Senator Tommy Tuberville is giving up his seat to run for governor in Alabama; he will be missed!

I remember the last Red Wave that didn't happen and I blamed the GOP. They did not support the primary choices of the people in certain states because they were not RINO choices. At that time Mitch McConnell was the minority leader in the Senate and he refused to support certain republican primary choices, and in doing so, democrats won and the Red Wave failed. Mitch is retiring and he will not be missed!

Republican Senator Thom Tillis is one of those senators retiring, but before he leaves, he's decided to once more go against the President of the United States... or against We the People.

Upgrade to paid

Last week President Trump announced his new appointee as Federal Reserve Chair, Kevin Warsh. Today RINO-Senator-Regressive Tillis decided to stand against President Trump's nominee. He is stalling the GOP's push to install a new Federal Reserve chair, pledging to block Kevin Warsh's nomination and any other candidate until the Department of Justice drops its investigation into current Chair Jerome Powell. As a Senate Banking Committee member, Tillis's opposition threatens to trigger a committee deadlock, defending the Fed's independence.

Federal Reserve Chair Jerome Powell is under a U.S. Department of Justice criminal investigation regarding alleged false statements made to Congress concerning the $2.5 billion renovation of the Fed's headquarters, which included questionable amenities. The probe, initiated in early 2026, focuses on whether he lied about the project's scope and costs.

It is my understanding that Tillis believes the Federal Reserve should be kept completely separate and not held accountable for lying to Congress or overspending on their "building budget." Of course, a member of congress would think overspending was not a reason to be investigated!

So, who is footing the bill for the new Federal Reserve headquarters?

According to Gemini the AI: The Federal Reserve is a self-funded entity that does not receive money from Congress or taxpayers. Its revenue primarily comes from interest earned on U.S. government securities (Treasury bonds) it buys on the open market, as well as interest on loans to financial institutions and fees for services. After covering operating expenses, the Fed remits the remaining profit to the U.S. Treasury.

I still believe We the People should be able to rely on a "bank board" to be able to stay on budget if they have the US economy in their hands... so-to-speak. Tillis will be gone eventually but he plans to cause as much "obstruction" as he possibly can before he retires, but as one of the wealthiest members of Congress, he should retire comfortably.

In the meantime, Americans have to work hard to keep the home fires burning!

Upgrade to paid

I will not lie, I'm very concerned about the midterm elections. Democrats are dirty cheaters and dangerous opponents. However, if we had strong and steadfast republicans in office they'd be working harder to see to it America's President doesn't have to go through another lying-frame-up of an impeachment.

I still believe that Liberty is always in the hands of We the People... BUT we must not rely on democrats or republicans to "do the right things." 202-224-3121 is the number to call to give these people some encouragement. I think Senator Tillis needs to hear from America!

Media Have Been Reporting New York City Mayor Zohran Mamdani plans to tax Big Apple's wealthy residents to cover Big Apple's $12B budget deficit. Former President Clinton commented yesterday that he has never been more concerned about government overreach than he is today.

“We, the American People” would be smart to take a hard look at how it is wealthy people are more responsible to pay for government debts/deficits than are people with comparatively less wealth. One argument contends wealthy people get undue benefits from returns on government securities investments. Another argument has it government bails out private businesses in financial distress.

I'M PAST THE POINT OF

It Would Be Smart For “Us, the American People” to recognize ‘tax-the-rich’ advocates, no matter why they want wealthy people’s wealth (property), amounts to seeking power to take other people’s property (wealth) simply because such property (wealth) is there to be taken. When government is after such power, we can conclude impetus for such seizure is rooted in a notion government owns all.

No mystery people seeking confiscatory power meet holder resistance.
