

Might Be A Indication “We, the American People” will see a civil war over who gets to defraud, who doesn’t. Media report Vice-President JD Vance is cutting umbilical cord on $1.3B in Medicaid over fraud. VP Vance warned every last commonwealth and state could have their Medicaid umbilical cords cut if they don’t get cracking on cracking down on fraud, waste, and abuse (FWA). Gritty move.

“Our government is an agency of delegated and strictly limited powers. Its founders did not look to its preservation by force; but the chain they wove to bind these States together was one of love and mutual good offices ...”

~ Jefferson Davis

Plenty OF Job Security For “Us, the American People” who make ends meet by working in America’s jurisprudence system these days. We can take long odds withholding Medicaid funding till FWA gets its pink slip will mean litigation. VP Vance and his FWA hit squad will, no doubt, be blasted with accusations of mean spiritedness and uncaring for down and out people who desperately need help.

“If you would not confront your neighbor and demand his money at the point of a gun to solve every new problem that may appear in your life, you should not allow the government to do it for you.”

~ William E. Simon

“Our, the American People’s” social safety net can’t be expected to throw money at every call for money because someone who gets safety net money says they absolutely, positively must have it. We could take a swipe t FWA by having more tax withholding money stay under local control. Then, VP Vance and his hit squad would not be those proverbial bad guys. Local government would have control.

“A democracy is a place where numerous elections are held, at great cost, without issues, and with interchangeable candidates.”

~ Gore Vidal

Whether Our American Socio-Economic system ought be more like NORDIC countries’ progressive social equity system is debatable. AI sources indicate NORDIC system avoids fraud through strong enforcement and auditing. No stretch to say they who intend to defraud, waste, or abuse, will look for ways to defraud, waste, or abuse. No reason why our capitalistic system can not root out FWA.

On-Going Media Reports Have It so-called redistricting war is building up steam following Supreme Court of the United States (SCOTUS) April 29th, 2026 redistricting decision as it applies to America's Voting Rights Act. On balance, media articles give GOP redistricting measures an edge in gerrymandering voting district lines. Democrats are reported targeting new states to gain headway.

"We, the American People," if we are predisposed to make elections neutral and unbiased, would be smart to take a dim view of gerrymandering voting district perimeters. In any manner other than a uniform method across America's territory. A uniform grid network would work, with population changing grid-to-grid deciding where district lines would fall based strictly on voter numbers by square.

AMERICA'S LAST LINE OF DEFENSE

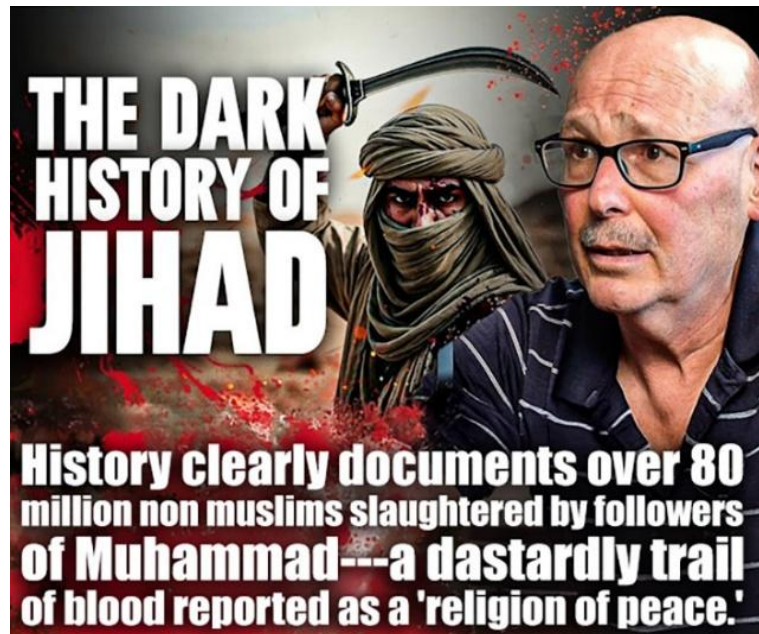

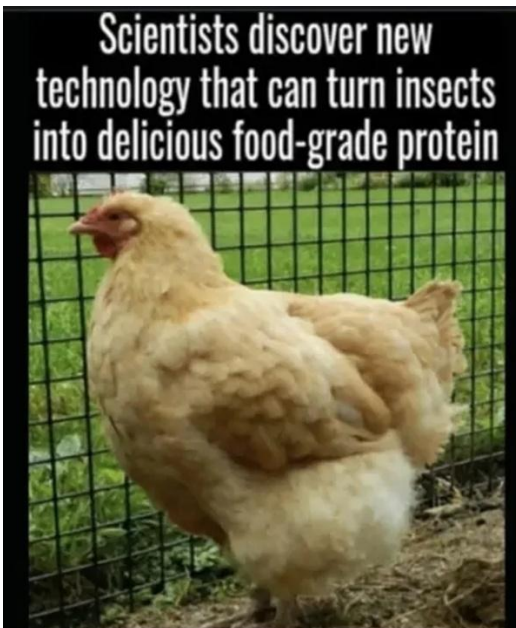

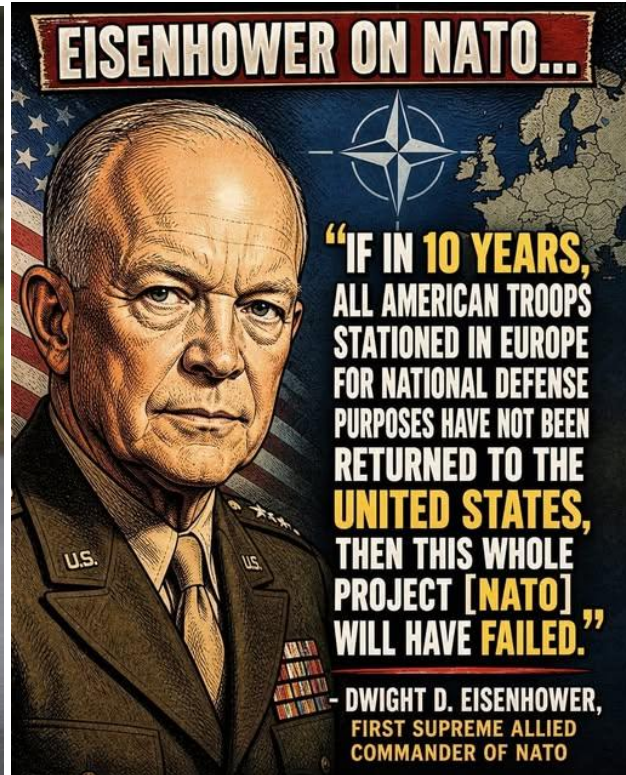

“Our, the American People’s” government, because we allow legislators, chief government executives, and judges to uphold laws letting government confiscate property (wealth) and restrict choice (Liberty), prompts election candidates and sitting legislators to try manipulating votes by virtue of drawing voting district lines to favor some candidates over others. Winning evidence is theoretical.

“If one of the States chose to withdraw its name from the contract, it would be difficult to disprove its right of doing so ...”

~ Alex de Tocqueville

There May Be Statistical Probability gerrymandering-like strategies to control voting districts offer some election candidates an edge. Voting secrecy, though, would make statistical verification a tough chore. Cases where gerrymandering has influenced elections outcomes are slight enough to consider gerrymandering unlikely to have drastic effect on elections. In any case citizens can nullify elections.

“If [the Declaration of Independence] justifies the secession from the British empire of 3,000,000 of colonists in 1776, we do not see why it would not justify the secession of 5,000,000 of Southrons from the Federal Union in 1861.”

\(The American Crisis by Thomas Paine, December 23, 1776\)

America did not, nor does not want force; but she wanted a proper application of that force. Wisdom is not the purchase of a day, and it is no wonder that we should err at the first setting off. From an excess of tenderness, we were unwilling to raise an army, and trusted our cause to the temporary defence of a well-meaning militia. A summer’s experience has now taught us better; yet with those troops, while they were collected, we were able to set bounds to the progress of the enemy, and, thank God! they are again assembling. I always considered militia as the best troops in the world for a sudden exertion, but they will not do for a long campaign. Howe, it is probable, will make an attempt on this city [Philadelphia]; should he fail on this side the Delaware, he is ruined. If he succeeds, our cause is not ruined. He stakes all on his side against a part on ours; admitting he succeeds, the consequence will be, that armies from both ends of the continent will march to assist their suffering friends in the middle states; for he cannot go everywhere, it is impossible. I consider Howe as the greatest enemy the Tories have; he is bringing a war into their country, which, had it not been for him and partly for themselves, they had been clear of. Should he now be expelled, I wish with all the devotion of a Christian, that the names of Whig and Tory may never more be mentioned; but should the Tories give him encouragement to come, or assistance if he come, I as sincerely wish that our next year's arms may expel them from the continent, and the Congress appropriate their possessions to the relief of those who have suffered in well-doing. A single successful battle next year will settle the whole. America could carry on a two years' war by the confiscation of the property of disaffected persons, and be made happy by their expulsion. Say not that this is revenge, call it rather the soft resentment of a suffering people, who, having no object in view but the good of all, have staked their own all upon a seemingly doubtful event. Yet it is folly to argue against determined hardness; eloquence may strike the ear, and the language of sorrow draw forth the tear of compassion, but nothing can reach the heart that is steeled with prejudice.

(The American Crisis Continues by Beth Ann)

Independent Americans do not and never have wanted force; we simply wish to be left alone and live our lives as free and independent people. Perhaps I reuse the term Tories too often, but the summer of love just a few short years ago proved we can no longer sit apathetically and expect to remain a free people. There are those in the Democrat Party, who wish to destroy our Constitutional Republic; in truth, they are Marxists and globalists. They are determined to remove individuality and replace it with collectivism: there is no personal freedom in such a governance movement.

There is need for a proper application of force:

Apathy of We the People has brought us to a place in our beloved America where I feel as Thomas Paine, I wish with all the devotion of a Christian, that the names of Whig (Republicans) and Tory (Democrats) may never more be mentioned. Perhaps you find that rather strange, but it is the power of these two parties that has brought America down. They would not have gained such power had it not been for the complacency and apathy of the American people. We make jokes of their lies and lack of integrity, then we are angered by their insider trading habits and that infamous “slush fund” to buy their way out of their “bad behavior.” It is Congress who changes the rules, amends the contract, ignores the rule of law, spreads falsehoods, and sows discord among the people. Is there any wonder that our nation is now so divided? You might think that I should write against one president or the other, but I have come to the obvious opinion that while presidents come and go...it is Congress who continues to stay. They make the laws, they change the rules, it is Congress who Amends the contract (Constitution). Congress decided that presidents must have limited terms, while they can serve “forever!”

Two hundred and fifty years our nation boasts of our Independence, but can a people who rely so heavily on a “government system” truly believe they are independent? The Two-party political system we find ourselves enslaved to, seeks not to protect the citizens; they strive not to preserve our Constitution, but instead they legislate to pervert it and to slowly erode your inalienable rights.

“When the people find that they can vote themselves money, that will herald the end of the republic.” – Ben Franklin

So, it is a vicious cycle of politics; politicians make promises to grant monies to the people. (which of course come from the tax dollars paid by the people, in actuality promising to take your money and give it back, but in smaller quantities) The people then vote yes to the taking of and the giving away of their own hard-earned dollars.

When President George Washington gave his farewell address in 1796 he warned us of what a strong and powerful two-party system would bring:

“However [political parties] may now and then answer popular ends, they are likely in the course of time and things, to become potent engines, by which cunning, ambitious, and unprincipled men will be enabled to subvert the power of the people and to usurp for themselves the reins of government, destroying afterwards the very engines which have lifted them to unjust dominion.”

Upgrade to paid

President Washington’s wisdom has been prophetic.

Many warned that our American “experiment” would not survive, however the experiment proved successful, very successful! A Constitutional Republic works when the people are working and well informed. The people, however, must want to be free and independent. The American Dream is about opportunity for all who are willing to work. This nation has long been known for the independent nature of its people. However, the combination of cunning, ambitious, and unprincipled politicians mixed together with the greed and laziness of people who would rather be “wards of the state” than self-governed, has crippled our Constitutional Republic. Those who should know better, refer to our government as a democracy, but that form of government was never the intent of our Founding Fathers; for that is mob rule.

The American Crisis Continues yet today, but like Thomas Paine, I am hopeful. I am hopeful, because I believe in the American people. I believe in those who are still proud of their nation and call themselves patriots. I believe in the American Christians who know without a doubt that God had a hand in the birth of this Free and Independent nation. I believe because I must believe, for you see, Liberty is always in the hands of the People, but first it must be a longing and a lust within their hearts. I write to call out to all Americans, and to plant within them that seed of hope and encouragement, letting them know that this nation can, and will again be that shining city on a hill.

“Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is in heaven.” Matthew 5:16 KJV

“You are the light of the world. A city set on a hill cannot be hidden.”

Matthew 5:14-16

It's Another Supreme Court of the United States (SCOTUS) ruling sure to bring howls of protest from those hoping SCOTUS would rule opposite. Ruling in question found Heart-of Dixie State GOP legislators could go about their proposed voting district plans, "We, the American People," one would think would be out of patience over redistricting gerrymandering business peppering media news.

Gerrymandering, While An Enticing Tactic for controlling Congressional House of Representatives membership, is debatable as to effectiveness. Not unfair to say candidates who feel they need to manipulate voting district boundaries have marginal confidence voters will make good choices. It would be smart for "Us, the American People" to outlaw gerrymandering in its entirety for a grid.

"Any people anywhere, being inclined and having the power, have the right to rise up and shake off the existing government, and form a new one that suits them better."

~ Abraham Lincoln

There Is No Reason Why "Our, the American People's" voting districts could not be decided by laying a grid of, say, mile squares from sea to shining sea and border to border, along with Alaska, Hawaii and any place else necessary. How party affiliation might cluster would be determined by nothing other than where people decided to plant themselves. Who gets to be a representative would be by count.

“We protest solemnly in the face of mankind, that we desire peace at any sacrifice, save that of honor..”

Voting Redistricting Manipulation Could go by way of famed Dodo bird if we, a sovereign citizenry, were to stop our legislators from creating socio-economic competition among Americans. Lawful power to confiscate property (wealth) and restrict choice (Liberty) does little more than prompt legislative office candidates to promise voters a ‘fair share’ of confiscated property (wealth) bounty.

“It is true the shot fired at Fort Sumter was a mistake since it provided the pretext for the Southland to be invaded by foreign troops, but the right of secession realized through the ballot box remains an essential part of our constitutional order.”
