“It will be of little avail to the people that the laws are made by men of their own choice if the laws be so voluminous that they cannot be read, or so incoherent that they cannot be understood, if they be repealed or revised before they are promulgated, or undergo such incessant changes that no man, who knows what the law is today, can guess what it will be like tomorrow.”

~ James Madison, Federalist Paper #62

Something Corrupt Can't Be Trusted. Media outlets are running articles telling “Us, the American People” former President Barack Obama has pronounced American government as less corrupt than it may have ever been. Coverage notes Mr. Obama's pronouncement comes at a time when polling indicates Americans find trust of government at an all-time low, and, curiously, as Election 2026 nears.

"The rule of law can be wiped out in one misguided, however well-intentioned, generation."

~ William T. Gossett

"We, the American People" have power, as a sovereign citizenry, to hold political corruption at a minimum by restricting government authority in socio-economic matters to those matters where government action does not result in benefits to some Americans, detriments to other Americans. We could start by abolishing all taxation but taxation on commerce. All taxes are paid by consumers.

"A great many laws in a country, like many physicians, is a sign of malady."

~ Voltaire

All Taxes Tax Wealth (Property). All taxes are paid from income by employment or oncome generated by liquidating property (wealth) asset held by "Us, the American People." Wealth is created by exchanging goods and services for goods and services . . . commerce. All taxes can be paid from commerce with taxes collected at points of transaction. Tax rates would be set by local authority.

“An individual who breaks a law that conscience tells him is unjust, and who willingly accepts the penalty of imprisonment in order to arouse the conscience of the community over its injustice, is in reality expressing the highest respect for the law.”

~ Martin Luther King Jr.

“Our, the American People’s” distrust of government can be alleviated by increasing our proactive role as a self-governing sovereign citizenry. Smaller government under local control represents less opportunity for corruption, provided local control is held to account by citizens who settle for nothing less than squeaky accountability by transparency. National defense would be left to national control.

“Unnecessary laws are not good laws, but traps for money.”

~ Thomas Hobbes

People Intending To Live In Liberty do not allow legislators - or other public officials within These United States of America, to cause any citizen to be drawn into an obligation to assume responsibility for public debt for reasons other than to defend these United States. They require elected leaders to defend America’s liberty unequivocally.

More Americans Lean Toward Socialism than ever. Wealthier people fear having their wealth taxed. According to og-going media articles. Whether it be wealth tax or socialism, each places more power with government than with people at large. "We, the American People" would be smart to act with care when musing taxing people's wealth because they have it, and place lawful power in a few.

It Is Folly For Any Society underpinned by freedom in Liberty to allow government more power than necessary to protect a nation from encroachment and to protect society from harm by criminality. It is arguable accruing private wealth is a crime under communism or socialism. It is less a crime for "Us, the American People" to accumulate private wealth under capitalism, even though capitalism is taxed.

"Our, the American People's" representative Constitutional republic governmental form does not provide for equal outcome as a function of effort. Our governmental form does desist from confiscating property (wealth) and restricting choice (Liberty) based on our body politic having power to replace government in apart or in whole as a matter of our satisfaction with how our government does its job.

Types Of Government Where They In Government have comparatively more power over society than society has over government require comparatively greater law enforcement than do societies with comparatively more power over government. It is fair to say government strives for more power than less. Taxing wealthier people at greater rates, and advancing socialism, increases government power.

The Thirty-Two Hour Workweek Act introduced in Congress by Senator Bernie Sanders (D-VT) and Representative Mark Takano (D-CA) seeks to amend the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1940 by reducing the standard workweek from 40 hours to 32 hours for nonexempt employees, according to a press release.

In a press release, Sen. Sanders stated:

“A 32-hour work-week is not a radical idea. What’s radical is that, despite an explosion in technology and productivity over the last fifty years, millions of workers are working longer hours for lower wages while nearly $80 trillion in wealth has been redistributed from the bottom 90 percent to the top 1 percent. That has got to change. It’s time to reduce the stress level in our country and allow workers and their families to enjoy a better quality of life.”

If I understand some of Bernie’s “phraseology” there, he thinks technology should be replacing the hours of human labor. Is technology then working those 8 hours that Bernie’s “Thirty-Two-Hour Workweek Act” eliminates from humans? Where’s his data to prove any of those crazy numbers? Bernie always wants to redistribute everyone else’s wealth.

According to Fox 5 Atlanta, business groups and opponents warn that mandatory caps could raise labor costs, create staffing shortages, and lead to higher prices for consumers.

Sanders claims that 28.5 percent of the American workforce currently works over 60 hours per week and that Americans “work more hours than any other nation.”

Bernie has also been a strong advocate for a very large increase in the minimum hourly wage. In states that did this, businesses couldn’t afford to pay their employees and businesses were eventually bankrupt and out of business. If you increase the number of hours that will require overtime pay, it will have the same failing financial effect as raising the minimum wage; employers will not be able to pay the higher wages.

Bernie is a millionaire who owns several homes. He says he made his money selling books. I’m not sure how he can live with himself as that is Capitalism 101; Bernie’s books are on the evils of capitalism... that’s a great example of hypocrisy and greed.

28.5 percent isn’t a very large number of workers in America; I’m not sure what jobs he was gleaming that data from; I know a lot of working Americans here in Mid-Missouri, and with the exception of our farmers and ranchers, I don’t know anyone else putting in 60-hour work weeks, unless they are volunteering those extra hours for overtime. Recently President Trump vowed no tax on overtime; Bernie Sanders and his Marxist-radical-Islamist-Democrat-Party loudly opposed no tax on overtime, and they opposed no tax on tips. You see, Bernie is not proposing less hours to help the American worker, if he were, he'd have agreed with no tax on tips and no tax on overtime! He wants to raise the minimum wage, not to help the worker, but to tax the worker more. He is full of bologna when he claims he's for the working class and against the wealthiest 1%.

Perhaps someone should tell Bernie that the reason America is a strong and prosperous nation is because we work harder than those in whatever other nations he's referring to.

It might be time for Bernie to put in less than 32 hours and just retire! Maybe he'll have time to make another million dollars by writing another book on the evils of making a million dollars.

There Are Myriad Resources Available to inquiring minds anxious to learn how government runs out of money. “We, the American People” can, if we choose, spend untold hours coursing through such resources and learn a single reason why govern runs out of money. Government runs out of money when government coffers are empty, but there are creditors lined up to be paid. It doesn’t have to be.

“Politicians can’t give us anything without depriving us of something else. Government is not a god. Every dime they spend must first be taken from someone else.”

"Our, the American People's" government could run on a no-deficit spending basis were we to force our government to run so. We need only require our government to make next year's budget based on last year's revenue. It might take some doing, but it's likely our government could run a budgetary surplus if we required government to eliminate unnecessary or improperly mandated spending.

There Is No Reason Why Government needs to operate on deficit spending as accommodated by raising America's debt ceiling. It is "Us, the American People" who pay government's bills. We could, were we so willing, keep government from running a deficit. While it would take some time and planning, there is nothing to stop us from requiring a sovereign citizenry vote to release public funds.

A Citizen-Controlled-Taxation System would consist of all taxation taking place at America’s lowest political subdivision levels. Federal government would state its funding demands to commonwealths/states; commonwealths/states would include their spending needs, pass on total to lower levels till all funding was included and commerce tax rates set accordingly. No other taxes.
