Some Of "Us, the American People" are beside ourselves with media reports Senator-elect Abdul El-Sayed might take his oath on some Quran copy. No matter how Abdul El-Sayed takes his oath of office, he is bound by it. If there is within us enough temerity to hold him to it. It is unlikely there is a Quran passage relieving El-Sayed of his obligation to Abide by his oath of Senate office however he takes it.

"We need to re-import illegals and pay damages to them."

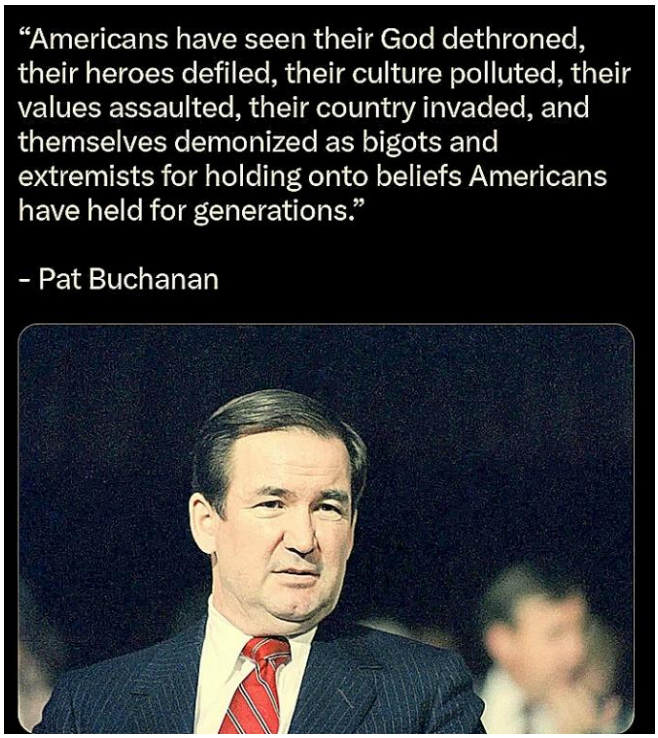

- Hakeem Jeffries

"We, the American People" are hardly principle-minded if we let an inconsequential matter like El-Sayed taking his oath of office with his hand on a Quran copy. Even if Senator-elect Sayed justifies his senatorial votes by referring to some Quran passage, it matters not to his constituents. Sayed's constituents will be looking for one thing from Sayed: Senate legislative votes to their satisfaction.

"[Statists] believe that government should make decisions for individuals. Since individuals usually prefer to make their own decisions, coercion and compulsion become necessary correctives."
~ Theodore Forstmann

As To "Our, the American People's outrage to even think of Sayed placing his hand on a Quran as ha takes his senatorial oath of office, we would do well to review symbolism's meaning. We have little to nothing to fear from El-Sayed's reverence for Islam's Quran unless he starts trying to behead his fellow senators in Congressional chambers. There would be more fuss than cleaning crews bleaching blood.

It Would Not Be Above Some of America's more ambitious Congressional Senate legislators to use a minor mater like one's hand on a Quran during one's oath-taking as a way to divert our attention to more damaging senatorial business like confiscating property (wealth) and restricting choice (Liberty). Our capacity to be free does not rest in proclamations or flowerful Constitutional words on paper.

It's Entirely Possible "We, The American People," as voters, just might discriminate against older candidates. Aside from discrimination, there is a better reason why we would cast ballots for any candidate. We, foolishly, vote for people, not for principles.

"It's Complicated," they tried to explain. This phrase is like fingernails scraping down a chalkboard. It's a phrase many elected officials, media, and the political experts use as they talk down to the American people; it is demeaning and insulting.

What we have here is a failure to educate.

"Liberty cannot be preserved without general knowledge among people." John Adams

"Every child in America should be acquainted with his own country. He should read books that furnish him with ideas that will be useful to him in life and practice. As soon as he opens his lips, he should rehearse the history of his own country." Noah Webster

Years ago, I listened to those folks accused of being "conspiracy theorists" explaining the deliberate dumbing down of America… of Americans. We know now, they were absolutely correct. The fact that our public-government-run schools are turning out children who cannot read, is not out of ignorance or neglect; it was and is a calculated intentional strategic plan to dumb-down Americans.

We should recognize this today, as so many in America do not know our story; the truth of American history. Not only are they unfamiliar with American history, but many of our young people cannot sufficiently read, write or calculate simple addition or fractions. This is why public schools, in many states, no longer allow testing or even have requirements for graduation diplomas. Their ability to function and succeed is no longer a concern of the public school system.

"It is universally admitted that a well-instructed people alone can be permanently a free people." James Madison

"Enlighten the people generally, and tyranny and oppression of body and mind will vanish like evil spirits at the dawn of the day." Thomas Jefferson

We cannot keep what we don't know what is or what was.

The story goes: After the signing of our Constitution, September 17, 1787, Dr. Benjamin Franklin was leaving the hall, when a woman, Mrs. Powell approached him. She asked, "Well sir, what kind of government do we have?" He replied simply, "A Republic, if you can keep it."

I know many good and caring schoolteachers, but the system is corrupt. Not all, but many of our schoolteachers believe in the corrupt system and do not care about the children. Why would schools today invite drag queens into the schools and libraries to read to our young children? What does that have to do with education?

During the dark times when our nation allowed slavery, did you know it was against the law to educate a slave? Did you know that black Americans were not allowed to own guns? These two facts should tell you exactly why those who now want to change our Constitution, also want to remove your rights and dumb down America's education system. Today, they do not care about the color of your skin. The dumbing down agenda is also why they are against school choice; students are to be “stuck” in a school that is the choice of their own circumstances, never to be allowed to rise above a poorly led education system.

It is easier to manipulate and deceive a people if they are uneducated.

It is easier to control a people if they are hungry.

It is easier to oppress a people if they live in fear of government and their neighborhoods are ridden with crime.

It is easier to subdue a people if they are unarmed!

It is easier to govern a people if their faith in God has been governmentally restricted.

The democrat socialists, and the globalists, have teamed up with radical Islamists. They are working together to destroy our Constitutional Republic in order to seize absolute control over this nation and all its people.

The American Crisis Continues

Eternal vigilance is the price of Liberty and Freedom

Americans used to be characterized as stubborn, it would behoove us to go back to our roots as One Nation Under God.

There’s a lot of talk about our schools now teaching “Social Studies” instead of Civics. I found an old Civics book from a “dumpster dive” I made many years ago. I am unable to see the copyright date on it or the grade level, but allow me to share just the first two paragraphs of the beginning of the book:

Unit 1

Government and Citizenship

People from many ethnic groups, races, and backgrounds have joined together as one nation in the United States of America. Their experiences have given vital meaning to these words on the great Seal of the United States: "e pluribus unum," which means "out of many, one."

The uniqueness of its people is one reason why the United States is a very special nation. Its government, which has been a model to many nations around the world, is another reason why the United States is special.

The book goes on to explain our Constitution, our rights, our laws, and equal justice for all. It gives a positive and promising outlook on the United States of America.

Upgrade to paid

Has America had days we are not proud of? Absolutely, we are human beings and we are flawed. However, we are a nation that strives to improve and build upon our mistakes.

"The greatness of America lies not in being more enlightened than any other nation, but rather in her ability to repair her faults." Alexis de Tocqueville

"I sought for the greatness and genius of America in her commodious harbors and her ample rivers... Not until I went into the churches of America and heard her pulpits flame with righteousness did I understand the secret of her genius and power. America is great because America is good..." attributed to Alexis de Tocqueville

If our young people are not taught of these things, they will be easily taken. How many Americans respect, appreciate or practice the Christian faith? It was once the very foundation of this nation's laws. The laws still exist, but those in leadership ignore or pervert them.

If our young people cannot read or comprehend what they read, they will not be able to read and search the scriptures and they will not be able to read our Constitution, or our many founding documents. Our Founding Documents are not difficult to understand; there is nothing complicated about them. When it becomes complicated it's corrupted and the intent is for evil.

Our youth no longer hear the stories of America, her heroes and her achievements. They are only told of her failures and led to believe she is evil and undeserving of sovereignty.

If our schools will not teach truth in American history; the good, the bad and the triumphs, then we must teach them in our homes… after all it is our responsibility and our duty.

America can rise above and reverse our failure to educate and…
